Ride a Train at the

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF RAILROAD HISTORY & INNOVATION

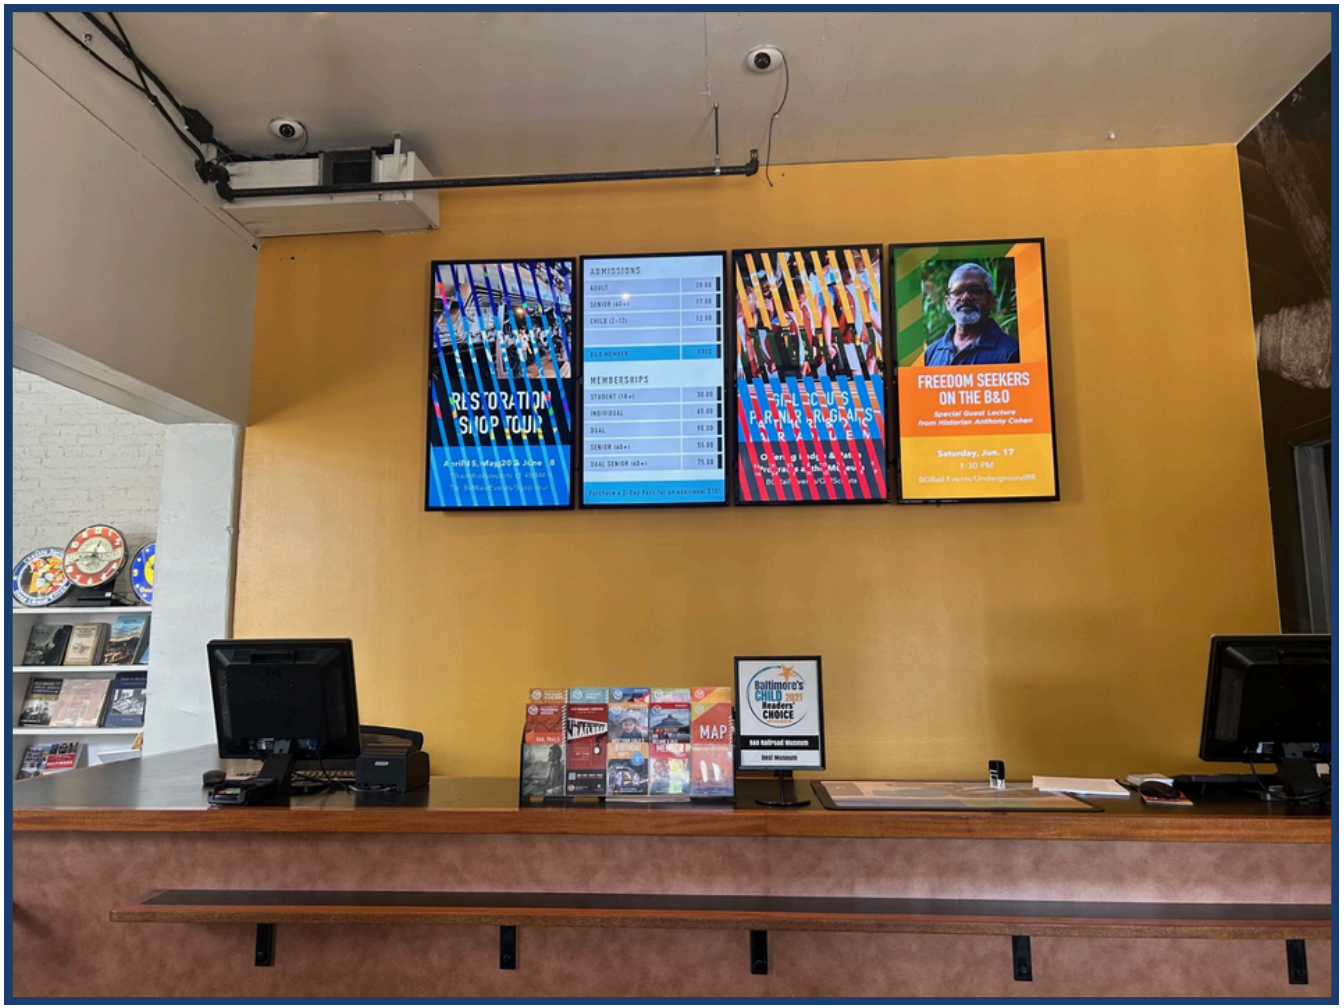

A Social Narrative for Teens & Adults

On your trip to the National Museum of Railroad History & Innovation, you can park in the parking lot. There are trains in the parking lot you can look at.

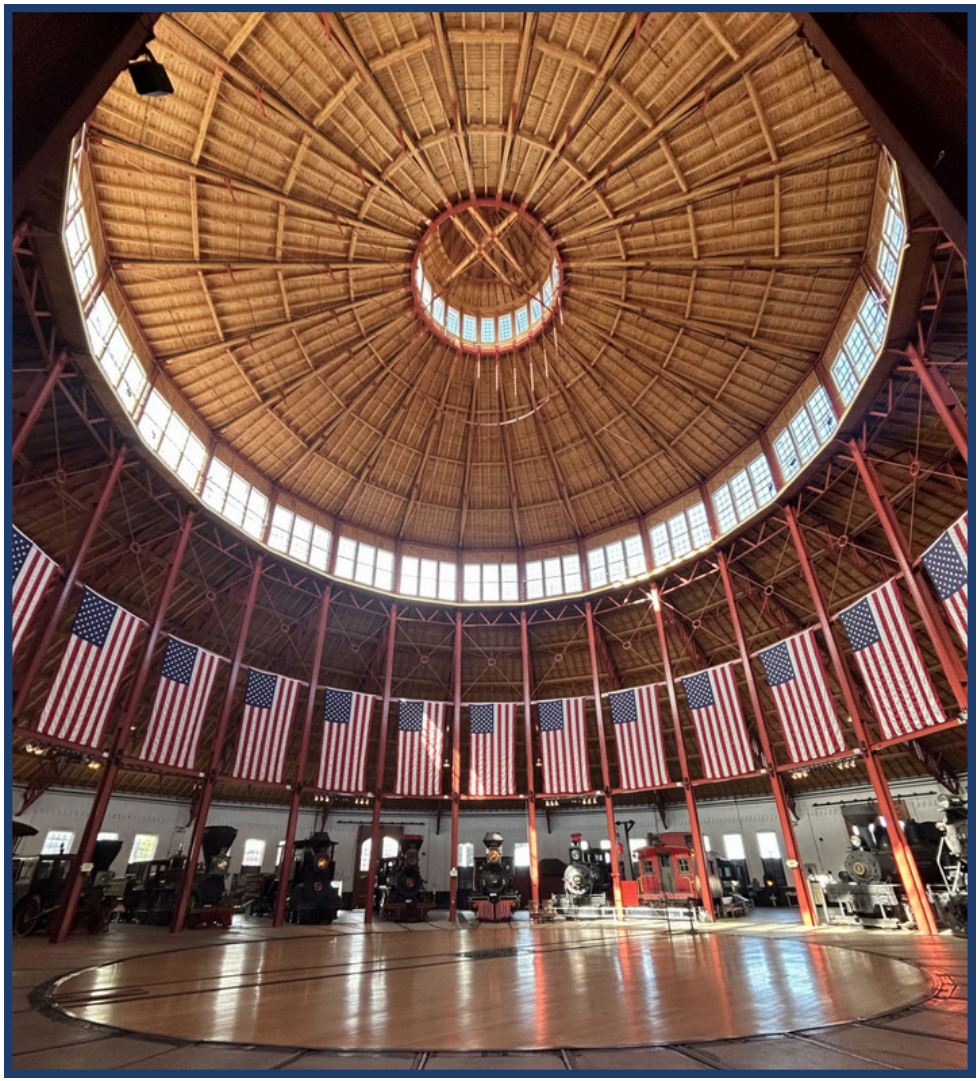

Walk towards the sidewalk, you will see signs for the museum entrance.

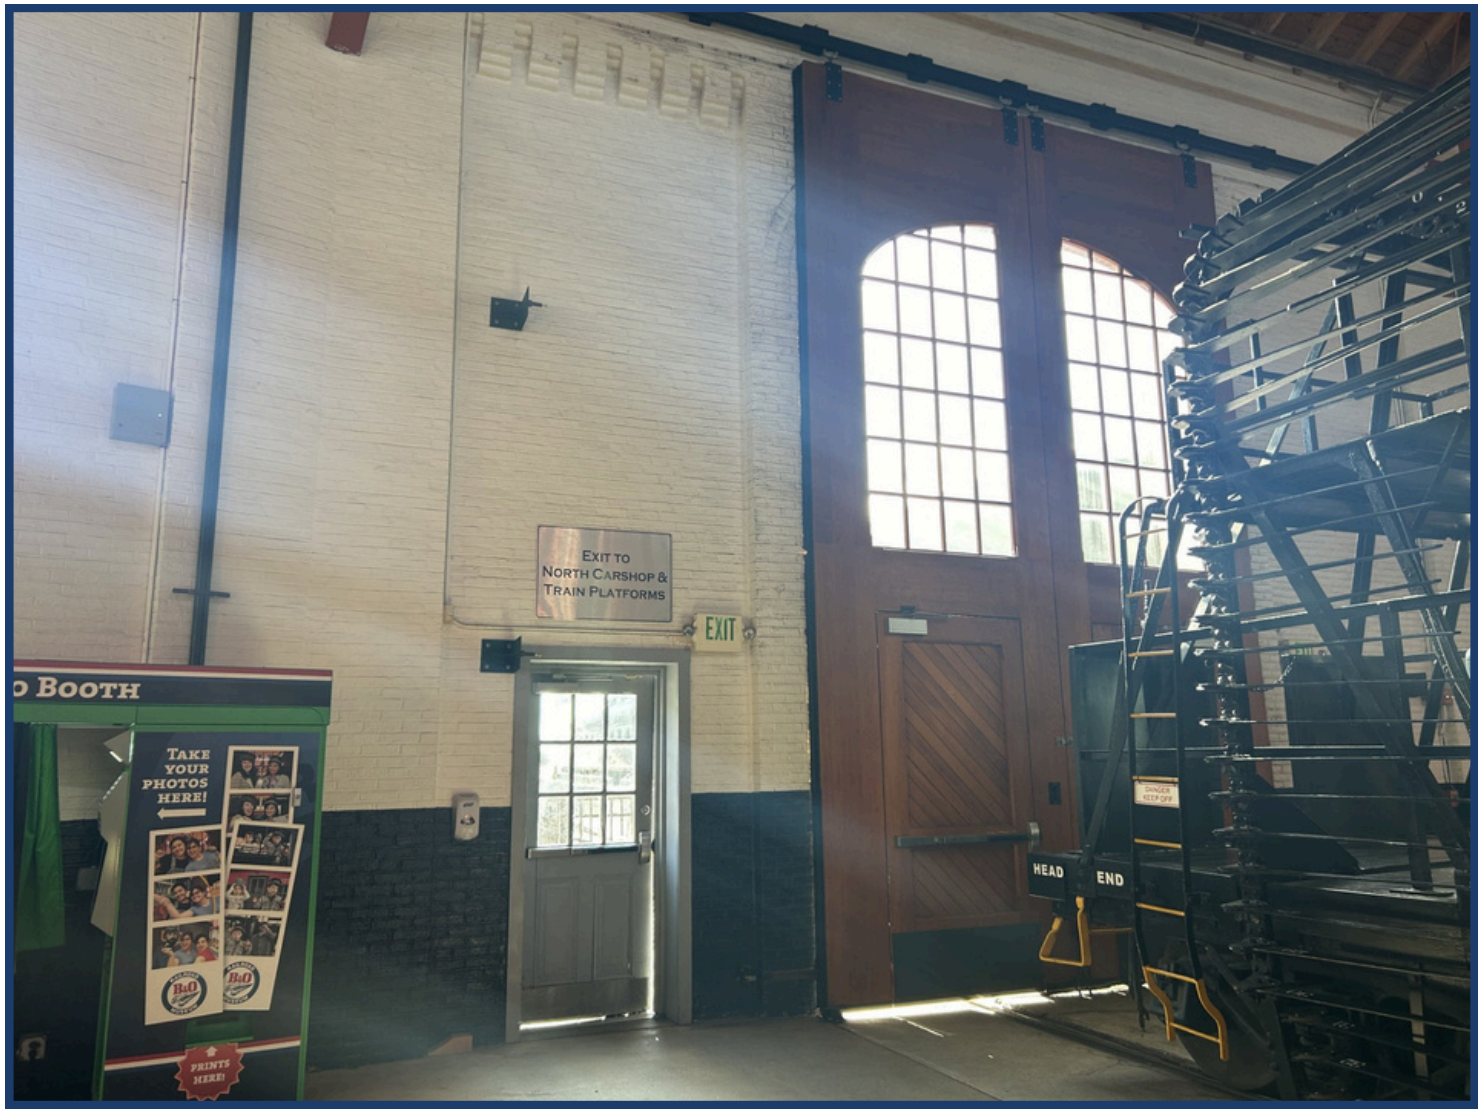

During your visit you will ride a train! Purchase tickets from the museum staff when you arrive.

After getting your tickets, you can go into the Roundhouse. There are a lot of trains to look at in this building.

When it is time to board the train, there will be an announcement.

To find the train walk through the Roundhouse and out the big, tall doors.

Find the ramp labeled Platform 2 and walk all the way to the end of the platform. Now wait in line until the conductor is ready.

There will be a loud safety announcement before we board the train. You can borrow headphones and a sensory kit from the museum if you do not like loud noise.

After the conductor says “All Aboard” show them your tickets.
They will tell you where to sit.

The train will play a recording about the museum's history. The engineer might ring the bell or blow the whistle.

When the train returns to the museum the conductor announce that it is time to get off the train.
